

IN THE ABSTRACT:

The Abstract as amended below with a replacement Abstract shows added text with underlining and deleted text with ~~strikethrough~~.

Please AMEND the Abstract as follows:

A server capable of eliminating the inconvenience which is caused when a request is made after a ~~Back button is operated~~ "back" operation on a client's browser. ~~Receiving means receives a~~ A request from a client is received, and ~~processing means performs a process processed~~ in compliance with the received request. ~~Affixing means affixes confirmation Confirmation~~ information for confirming a display status of the client side is affixed to the a result of process, and storing means stores the confirmation information affixed by the affixing means stored, and transmitted. ~~Transmitting means transmits the result of process having the confirmation information affixed thereto to the client which has made the request. When a request is made again from the client, extracting means extracts the confirmation information included in the request is extracted, and it is determined~~. ~~Determining means determines whether or not the extracted confirmation information extracted by the extracting means coincides with the stored confirmation information stored in the storing means, and withholding means withholds a~~ A process performed by the processing means in compliance with the request is withheld if it is judged by the determining means determined that the two sets of confirmation information do not coincide.